About the Conference

The National Conference on Contemporary Trends in Mathematical Sciences (NCCTMS-2026) is designed to be a premier gathering of mathematicians, researchers, and educators dedicated to bridging the gap between classical theory and modern computational intelligence. Organized by the Department of Mathematics, Arunachal Pradesh University in formal collaboration with Murkong Selek College, this conference provides a high-level platform for discussing the evolving landscape of mathematical sciences.

This national-level gathering encourages a diverse discourse by exploring the synergy between pure mathematics and applied mathematics. By leveraging the strategic partnership between our two institutions, the conference aims to foster collaborative innovation and create a robust network of researchers from across the Northeast and the rest of the country.

NCCTMS-2026 is committed to nurturing talent by offering a dedicated stage for young scholars and students to showcase their research, engage in rigorous academic dialogue, and receive mentorship from established experts in the field. By addressing interdisciplinary approaches and contemporary research trends, this conference seeks to strengthen the academic community and promote mathematics as a fundamental driver of technological and scientific advancement.
